THURSDAY NOV. 9 1911

The Journal commends the magnanimity of Mr. Julius Healy who last week published a letter in behalf of Mr. J. T. Christian, his successful opponent for the Democratic nomination for the Legislature. His conduct proves him worthy of the confidence of the people who gave him so large a vote on September 7th.

We are glad that the school fair held here on Saturday was such a great success and that it was so largely attended by the public. The effort put forth by the children deserves all the encouragement possible. The practical experience gained in this work will be of benefit to them in years to come and we trust that fairs of the future will receive even more cordial support.

By the time this article shall appear before the public the election of 1911 will have become history. It is impossible to say today (Tuesday) who will be the successful contestants in this battle of ballots but be they whom they may, we trust that the decision of the majority will be accepted by all concerned with good grace, if not with approval, and that the strife and bitterness engendered by the election may end with the closing of the polls on Tuesday night.

This campaign has been a unique one in many respects. Beginning in early spring it continued with unabating fury to the primary and after it to the present time. Throughout it has been characterized by personal bitterness, bickerings and strife which should find no place in our political affairs. We sincerely trust that it may never be our fortune to witness such another and that no trace of these undesirable conditions may remain after the election. After Tuesday all reason for distentions will be dead. Let them be buried beyond hope of resurrection.

As said by Mr. Healy in his letter in behalf of Mr. Christian last week we need to sacrifice personal considerations for party good. Not for years has the outlook in National affairs seemed more favorable to the Democrats. One strong, hard pull together is all that is necessary to land the control of the National Government. Let us not spoil our chances and waste our strength by fighting among ourselves but present a solid front to our ancient enemy in 1912. In this way only can we hope to be successful.

The Happy Land

I live in the land of Endeavor. Where nothing is counted in vain, Where people are busy forever, And no one has time to complain. Out here in the world of the idle You talk of your sorrows and fears, And ever the feast and the bridal Resound with the passing of tears; But we who are busy with labor, With plough and axe, and with loom, In the beautiful land of Endeavor, Care not for your stories of gloom. Out here in the land of the talkers You're breeding a difficult race Of pessimists, grouches and knuckers, Who swarm in your idyllic place; Your land, thus encumbered, will never, Be peaceful and happily like mine; In the far-away land of Endeavor This life is all roses and wine, Oh, yes you may go to that region And leave all the troubles behind, Which now, in a pestilent legion, Are gnawing away at your mind; But first you must honestly sever The fetters that idleness made, And then in the land of Endeavor You'll take up the happy man's trade.

C. Garnett's Designation

November 8th, 1911

Hon. Claggett B. Jones,
Judge of the Circuit Court of Mathews County,
Gloucester, Virginia;

Dear Sir:—

I hereby tender to you my resignation of the office of Commonwealth's Attorney for the County of Mathews, the same to take immediate effect.

It is, perhaps, useless for me to say to you that this course upon my part is due to the action of the voters of this County on yesterday in choosing as my successor a justice of the peace without license to practice and without client at this time; and believing as I must that the people do not longer desire my services in this capacity, I take great pleasure in presenting to them, through you, the office.

In taking this step, permit me to say that I feel no humiliation personal to myself on account of the action of the people, but I know that whatever of reflection there may be is upon them, and not upon me, for my conscience bears me the sweet and satisfying assurance that I have always been a fearless, honest and efficient public officer.

Trusting that the new prosecuting attorney, as the arm of the Court, may prove as efficient as the people deserve, believe me,

Very truly yours,
Leslie C. Garnett

Deaths

MRS. MARTHA J. FORREST

Mrs. Martha J. Forrest, wife of Mr. Cornelius Forrest, of Milford Haven, died at her home quite suddenly, Saturday, Nov. 4th, at 63 years of age.

Mrs. Forrest was a faithful Christian woman and a member of Salem Church for many years, leaves a devoted husband and several brothers and sisters to mourn her departure.

She was a kind neighbor and a true friend.

In the presence of a large congregation the pastor, Rev. L. J. Phaup conducted the funeral services and the interment was at Mr. Chas. Diggs burying ground.

ANNIE KATHERINE GODSEY

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Godsey, last week and took little Annie Catherine, the pet of their home, to live with Jesus.

Sate in the arms of Jesus, Safe on his gentle breast, There by his love o'er shadowed Sweetly my soul shall rest, Sate in the arms of Jesus, Safe from caroling care, Safe from the world's temptations, Sin cannot harm me there.

General News

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Thursday evening Oct. 19th, at the beautiful summer home, "Baycliffe," of the bride's parents near Raark, when Miss A. Elizabeth Douty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Douty, was married to Mr. Jno. F. Crittenden, Rev. Homer Fielding officiating.—Sentinel.

"Moss Side," the home of ex-treasurer W. H. Purkins, was sold at public auction here last Saturday and bought by Mr. R. L. Jordan, of Richmond, for the sum of $10,500. The farm contains 267 acres.—Sentinel

Miss Mary Donahoe of Fairfax, daughter of the present auditor of public accounts of the state and Mr. H. S. McCandish of Saluda were married in the former town on yesterday. The groom is well known here being the son of the late Robert McCandish of Saluda.

J. Edwin Treakle, the wholesale and commission clam dealer of Fulton Fish Market, New York, is doing a great deal of business at this time. His receipts during the past week have been record-breakers. On Friday Oct. 13, he received 572 sacks of clams while on Tuesday last, his shippers forwarded 200 barrels and 572 sacks.—N. Y. Fishing Gazette.

There was no quorum last night of the subcommittee of the Council Committee on Streets, to which was referred the petition of the Richmond, Urbanna and Peninsula Railroad Company, to be followed to purchase the Seven Pines electric line from the Virginia Railway and Power Company. There was present, however, a wealth of legal talent, for and against the proposition.

Briefly speaking, the petitioners claim to have already awarded contract for erection of fifteen miles of a proposed railway line from Richmond to Urbanna, and to have surveyors at work on the remainder. As part of this line they have secured an option on the present Seven Pines road, belonging to the Virginia Railway and Power Company, and desire to purchase it and make it a part of their system.—Times Dispatch.

High School Notes

NEWPOINT

Mrs. Dashiell arrived according to her promise, Thursday noon. She was met at the wharf by Mr. Powell who kindly entertained her in his hospitable home. At night the assembly hall at the High School was well filled and an interesting program was rendered. Mrs. Grover Armistead sang a beautiful solo and Mr. John Jordan recited. Miss George gave a nice little recitation and a trio of little girls gave a charming song.

Mrs. Dashiell's address was full of excellent and helpful things. She spoke of the work of the school. The old time school possessed three excellent features which have not been sufficiently emphasized in modern days—reading, mental arithmetic and good manners. The citizens have a very important work to perform in supporting the teachers and supplementing the funds from the School Board for the furnishing of the school.

The audience was thoroughly interested in the address and went away feeling that already their work in erecting the new is being rewarded.

Quite a number of the teachers of Mathews County assembled in the Court House, Friday afternoon to organize a Teacher's League. The teachers decided to adopt the Constitution of the State Teacher's League and provided to elect officers. Prof. G. A. Jordan was chosen president, Miss Mattie Hudgins, secretary; Miss Estelle Diggs, Treas.; Miss Nellie Shackelford, V. Pres. for Westville District; Mrs. John Diggs, V. Pres. for Chesapeake District, and Miss Eva Wright, V. Pres. for Piankintank District. The above officers form an executive committee of the League.

Miss Nellie Shackelford was elected Delegate to the Norfolk Convention. Dues were fixed at 35 cents. A copy of this paper is being sent to each white teacher in the county, through the kindness of the editor, and every teacher is urged to enroll in the League by sending name and dues to the Treasurer or Secretary of the League. At 2.30. Hon. J. D. Eggleston, Jr., Supt. of Public Instruction addressed the teachers and the citizens who assembled. For about 40 minutes the learned speaker entertained his audience with an earnest and strong educational address. He complimented the people of Mathews on the beautiful building which they are erecting at the Court House as well as those which have been recently built elsewhere in the County. He spoke of his own experience when as a young teacher he taught for $15 a month and paid $30 a month for board. With no uncertain sound he scored the man who is unwilling to help bear the burden of the education of the community in which he lives merely because he has no children of his own to educate, and the parent who values money more than the culture of the head and heart of his child. The address was full of good sound common sense and will bear fruit in the county. The listeners gave Mr. Eggleston a rising vote of thanks as he left.

Two papers were given; one on "co-operation" by Miss Nellie Shackelford, the other "The Rectification by Prof. Jordan.

A Sermonette

(True Nobility)

"The world oft times knows nothing of its greatest men. Their lives were passed in obscurity, but real nobility of character was theirs, and this is nearly always unseen and unknown. He who in tattered garments toils on way may, and often does, possess more real nobility of spirit than he who is driven past in a chariot. It is the mind that makes the heart rich; and as the sun breaks through the darkest clouds, so honor peereth in the meanest habit. Public martyrdom of every shape has a certain éclat and popularity connected with it that will often bear men up to endure its trials with courage; but those who suffer alone, without sympathy, for truth and principle—those who unnoticed by men, maintain their part, and, in obscurity and amid discouragement, patiently fulfill their trust—these are the real heroes of the age, and the suffering they bear is real greatness."
